Managing Risk in a Complex World

The need to manage risk has never been more apparent than it is today. Universities must make key decisions while balancing challenging internal and external pressures against the needs and expectations of stakeholders.

This training course provides an introduction into the core aspects of risk and its management. It seeks to explore both the positive and negative aspects of risk and aims to provide those attending with improved knowledge and understanding. Through a balance of formal teaching and practical exercises, delegates will be afforded the opportunity to discuss their own organisation's approach to risk management and identify practical solutions for promoting and embedding a strong risk aware culture.

Learning Objectives

Delivered over two hours, the objective of the event is to provide a broad yet comprehensive introduction to the concept of Enterprise Risk Management. The event will explore:

- The emergence of enterprise risk management as a key organisational discipline and how it sits within the institutional governance construct.
- The global standard 'ISO 31000: 2018-02 Risk management — Guidelines'.
- The risk management process.
- The risk landscape.
- Key success factors and benefits of the risk management discipline.

Who Should Attend

The event has been designed for use across the Higher Education sector and is relevant and beneficial to:

- Senior and line managers responsible for implementing enterprise risk management.
- Insurance managers, risk managers, safety practitioners, auditors, and others who find their traditional role expanding to include enterprise risk management duties.
- Anyone seeking to enhance their understanding of risk.
